

Creative Buyer for HALO

Are you commercially driven, decisive, and passionate about products? And do you dream of taking ownership in a role and on a team with both responsibility and development opportunities? Then you might be our new Creative Buyer at hummel!

A Quick Look at the Role

Location: hummel headquarters, Balticagade 20, Aarhus C

Team: Buying

Working hours: Full-time

Application deadline: August 31, 2026

Join the Team!

As Creative Buyer, you'll become part of our HALO team – a dedicated group of colleagues with diverse backgrounds in sourcing, product and category management. We play on the team that has the most fun – and we always play offense! For us, it's all about taking initiative, supporting each other, and celebrating both the small and big wins. In Buying, we are responsible for our creative buying – a hybrid of hands-on purchasing and product development – and we work closely with our suppliers, Design, Product Development, Retail and ECOM colleagues

Role and Responsibilities

As a Creative Buyer, you'll be responsible for owning your categories through the full product flow – combining hands-on buying with a creative, product-developing mindset – and building strong, close relationships with our suppliers, playing a key role in delivering impactful results – both for our team and our customers:

- Own the full product flow for your categories – from collection start to placing orders and purchasing, all the way to delivery of goods at our warehouse – proactively managing deadlines, risks, and dependencies along the way
- Combine creative product development with operational buying – contributing product ideas and improvements while building close supplier relationships through ongoing dialogue and supplier visits
- Drive fast, confident decision-making and follow-up across stakeholders, working solution-oriented to keep the process moving and reduce delays
- Work actively with KPIs and performance data across ECOM, Retail, and Marketplace, and take part in performance reviews to inform your buying decisions

How to Make the Team

We're looking for someone who is passionate about their field and a true team player. You take responsibility, thrive in collaboration, and are curious about how we can continuously improve – together.

To succeed in the role, we expect that you:

- Have experience with buying and purchasing, ideally combined with an eye for product development
- Are structured, decisive, and solution-oriented and thrive on getting things done
- Are motivated by an environment with high pace, close supplier dialogue, and cross-functional collaboration
- Communicate fluently in Danish and English
- A relevant commercial or textile education is an advantage – but most importantly, you have the courage and desire to learn and grow
- Possibly have experience from international sourcing markets or supplier negotiations, where you've learned to navigate across cultures and disciplines

Regardless of your background, we make sure we support each other from day one.

After 2 months:

- You feel settled in at Balticgade in Aarhus
- You're familiar with our systems and workflows
- Maybe you've already joined a Friday bar, a professional event, or a team sports activity?

After 4 months:

- You've taken ownership of the role and left your mark on your tasks
- You've found your rhythm and contribute with insights that help develop and lift the team
- You've built strong relationships – and make your teammates even better

Welcome to hummel

At hummel, we're a strong community built on team spirit, passion, and the will to make a difference.

There's room for those who take initiative, bring ideas to life, and want to create value – for both the business and their teammates.

With us, you get:

- A strong community with an informal tone
- Flexible working hours – including 1 hour of sport during work hours
- A workplace with a strong brand DNA and proud cultural heritage
- An active staff association, "hummelbien"
- Space for both ambition and balance

Want to Join the Team?
